NEW WORK by the AUTOHR of GUS HOWARD.

HARRY ASHTON; Or, THE WILL AND THE WAY. By the author of "Amy Lawrence," "Stanfield Hall." "Gus Howard," "Minnie Gray," etc. Beauti ally illustrated. Price 50 cents.

This is snother new novel by the gifted author of "Gus Howard," and surpasses in point of ingenuity of intrigue and skillful combunation any of this writer's former efforts. It has had immesses success in London, where it has run through one of the weekly journals of that city, the circulation of which has been increased many thousands by its great popularity.

the circulation of which has been increased many incusance by an execution of which has been increased many incusance by an execution of the deep interest and dramatic descriptions in "Starfield Hall," and "Amy Lawrence," must certainly pronounce Harry Ashton to be equally felicitions and effective in these points. The suthor, without in the least imitating, has stongly reminded us of the wif, gallantry, and adventurous spirit so conspicuous in Lever's works, and the work is destined to have a great sale.

Also, now ready, new editions of the following works:

What is said of its.

"Prof. Schleiden's capital treatise in the teachings of the vocctable world would pass muster with the most rigid off invitan that ever enlisted. It is as interesting as the most structure romanus, a beautiful as nature, and as pleasing as the finest poem."

[Boston Atlas.]

beautiful as nature, and as pleasing as the linear poem.

"It is an interesting, a musing and instructive work."

[Philadelphia Pennsylvanian.

"It is ingenious, learned and poetic—keen y admiring the beauties of nature, and thoughtfully evolving his great aptimal leasuns which nature so eloquantly teaches."

"A series of fuls leasure plant offices, which could only nave been finished by one whose mind was full of their subjects, and out of that fulness could paint in the parts and details."

"This is a unique and most entertaining as well as instructive Black work.

"Worthy the high reputation of its author, it is a work of accence, clothed in a beautiful garb of poetic imagery, and arrayed in faccinations of language that must charm every reader who is expalse of feeling such influences.

An everwhelming mass of evidence.
Miss. Stowe has fully surfained her world wide fame, in her Key. It is a most triumphant vindication of the truth of Uncle Tou's Cabin.
Sabbath Recorder, N. Y.
A terrific revelation. No wonder John Wesley called slavery—the sum of all villamies."
Miss. Stowe's Key is a volume of truths, strong as Holy Writ.
Everyhody that reads this book will come to the conclusion that facts are stubborn things.
We bes every man to read this book will come to the conclusion that facts are stubborn things.
We bes every man to read this book candidly and carefully.
Congregationalist, Boxtoo.
It possesses a terrible interest, and will command an immense circulation.
This volume possesses a profound interest.
The London Literary Examiner thus speaks: It is a book which most certainly will not weaken the impression that exists among thousands of readers, of the humanity of the genius of the author of Uncleiner, as pathetic as humorous, as deeply trage as the most celebrated scenes of her novel, it presents also from other sources, such details of Tom's Cabin. While it contains scene to first. Stowe's actual experience, as pathetic as humorous, as deeply trage as the most celebrated scenes of her novel, it presents also from other sources, much details of terror and misery, such appaling and irresiation evidence of what slavery really and undisguesdly is, and which no humanity or kindness can ever make other than its, that the effe

WILSON'S BUSINESS DIRECTORY, for 1853-4.

Published by JOHN F. TROW, in which all the business of the city is classified and arranged under proper heads, is about to be commenced, and will be issued as soon as completeness and accuracy will allow. Gentlemen called upon will confer a favor by giving to the canvassers all the necessary information.

The publisher, knowing the great importance of furlness and correctness in a work of this kind, bas not felt disposed to sacrifice its reputation for accuracy in order to publish first, or in connection with his principal City Directory.

No work of this kind can possibly be correct unless canvassed for after the 1st of May, when the business community have made their changes for the year. This work will be issued sufficiently early for the business season, and will be a work to be relied upon.

TROW'S NEW-YORK CITY DIRECTORY FOR 1833-4, just published, contains some 18,666 names more than any other Directory of the city ever published.
